New Social Equity Law

- Requested by Washington State Liquor and Cannabis Board
- Sponsored by Rep. Eric Pettigrew
- Strongly supported by the Washington State Commission on African American Affairs
 - Intent – Reduce barriers to entry to cannabis industry for individuals and communities most adversely impacted by enforcement of drug laws

Cannabis Retail Store Licenses

- LCB may issue retail licenses previously forfeited, cancelled or revoked, or which were never issued but could have been without exceeding the statewide limit – as part of a new social equity program.
- This means approximately 34 licenses will be available
- They will be issued to social equity applicants
- “Social equity applicant” means a person who either:
 - Resided for at least five of the preceding ten years in a “disproportionately impacted area” OR
 - Has been convicted of a marijuana offense or is a family member of such an individual

- “Disproportionately impacted area” is defined as a census tract or comparable geographic area that satisfies these criteria:
 - High rate of poverty;
 - High rate of unemployment;
 - High rate of participation in income-based federal or state program; and
 - High rate of arrest, conviction, or incarceration related to sale, possession, use, cultivation, manufacture, or transport of cannabis

Program Requirements

- Applicants must submit a Social Equity Plan. The plan may include:
 - A description of how the retail license issuance will meet social equity goals;
 - Applicant's personal or family history with the criminal justice system, including any cannabis-related offenses;
 - Composition of the workforce the applicant intends to hire;
 - Neighborhood characteristics of the location where the applicant intends to operate; and
 - Business plans involving partnerships or assistance to organizations or residents with connection to populations with a history of high rates of enforcement of marijuana prohibition
- Social Equity Goals
 - Increase number of cannabis retail licenses held by social equity applicants from disproportionately impacted areas; and
 - Reducing accumulated harm suffered by individuals, families, and local areas subject to severe impacts from the historical application and enforcement of marijuana prohibition laws.
